Campaigning for Your Opinions Matter

I am a young but politically interested student. I am very good at subjects like Maths and History, and I also have a passion for motorsports. I have for a long while had a passion for making the world a better place, not just for me, but for all of you. I attend my school's Debate Club and have participated in a Youth Speaks competition. I am standing as an MYP as I want to create a spark for these changes and start creating projects designed to make your life in Somerset better.

One of these changes I wish to begin is for all young people to be able to receive news and information which are as truthful as possible, meaning you can have an informed opinion about the ever growing spread of politics of the country. I want to make sure that misinformation that you may be seeing is gone completely.

I also want to tackle the issue of the voices of young people. I believe that you, and everyone else, need more of a say about the decisions made in your community. Furthermore, I don't simply want to just take my interests at heart, but also yours, and I want to actively listen to your opinions to see what I can do to help.

How will I solve these issues?

To make sure that you receive accurate information, I will create a survey investigating where people like you get your news from, whether that be the newspaper or social media, and I will research these sources by fact checking all sides of the story and comparing where these sources, intentionally or unintentionally, get things wrong. I will then aim to get these findings out to as many people as possible, meaning that you can identify any details you hear that are too wild to be true.

And to make sure that your voices are fully represented in your community, I will be working with town councils and important figures across Somerset to ensure that they are keeping your interests at heart, as well as using research that people like you help create to make your voice impossible to ignore.
